Celebration of Founder's Day at Kamehameha.

TRIBUTES PAID TO MRS. BISHOP.

New School for Girls and Museum Annex Added to Institution's Complement—Address by Mrs. Haalelealea—The Sports and Prize Winners.

Yesterday was a gala day at Kamehameha School.

Founder's Day is always celebrated appropriately but this day of the year 1894 was one of notable importance in the history of the institution, since it marks another step in the completion of the plans proposed by the founder, Mrs. Bernice Pauahi Bishop, the opening of the school for girls.

In conjunction with this the opening of the museum annex was a most important feature.

The exercises of the day began in the early morning, when after the usual custom a party of some 100 boys from the school rode to the corner of King and Nuuanu streets and from there marched to the mausoleum which was decorated with wreaths carried by the boys. The party was accompanied by the school band, led by Mr. Berger.

The formal exercises of the afternoon were held in Bishop Hall. At the appointed hour this place was filled to overflowing, many of the late comers being unable to obtain seats. The decorations were simple but tasty. Potted ferns encircled the stage, and about the pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Bishop on either side of the platform were appropriate decorations of ferns and flowers.

Those seated on the stage were: Rev. Dr. Hyde, Mrs. Haalelealea, Col. W. F. Allen, Miss Dodge, and Rev. J. Wai-mau. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Wai-mau. After a song by the school Dr. Hyde delivered a short address of welcome. He said in part: "These buildings were designed not merely to perpetuate the name of the founder but perpetuate for the benefit of others those influences which she regarded as of paramount importance in shaping and directing her own life and character." Mr. Hyde then called attention to the museum of Polynesian ethnology and natural history, and Queen Emma's interest in the work. December 2, 1857, Hon. C. R. Bishop stated to the trustees, appointed under the will of Mrs. Bishop, that it was his desire to erect a suitable building for a museum on the Kamehameha School premises.

The trustees cordially approved the project, and selected the site. The same architect who drew the plan for the hall drew the plan also for the museum. Mr. Bishop had previously built and paid for the preparatory school, and had also paid the bills for the cost of the hall, as of record April 11, 1859. A deed of gift from him passed over to the charge of the Trustees the contents of the museum, under date of March 23, 1861. Finding that, through some mistake in phraseology, lands conveyed at the same time had not been specially conveyed for the maintenance and extension of the museum, May 20, 1892, he announced his intention of giving, for this purpose, his lands in Waipio. A few months afterward (October 3, 1892) he announced his intention to build an annex, plans for which he presented, as prepared by the Curator and Superintendent. That building is now completed, and is now opened to the public. March 5, 1893, Mr. Bishop passed over to the Trustees securities, whose annual interest will be amply sufficient to maintain the Museum and extend its collections. Recently, Mr. Bishop has purchased, for the Museum, Mr. Garratt's large collection of shells, and, still more recently, Mr. W. T. Bingham's herbarium of Hawaiian plants.

It was Mr. Bishop's desire, in locating the Museum on these premises, to perpetuate what of public interest, of national interest, of personal interest, there is in this extensive and unique collection of Hawaiian antiquities and relics. Heretofore and environment are two potent factors in the development of races and individuals. It is Mr. Bishop's desire that these memorials of the past shall furnish patriotic instruction and intensify patriotic enthusiasm in the Hawaiian youth of both sexes brought into these buildings, under these influences, for education and training, and, as such, they are proper a part of the equipment of these schools.

It is the intention of the Trustees to make the Museum also more and more a nucleus for collecting and concentrating the appliances for scientific research in the various departments of Polynesian Ethnology and Natural History. Arrangements will be made also for opening the Museum more frequently to the general public as well as for special assistance to individuals engaged in scientific investigations.

No one present regrets more than Mr. Bishop's associates in the Board of Trustees, his inability to be present at these memorial services of Founder's Day. On many previous occasions we have heard from him words of glad encouragement and sound advice. We are happy in having present with us one who has been intimately associated with him in home life as well as public duties. We shall be glad to bear a few words from Colonel Allen, as Mr. Bishop's representative.

Col. Allen said: I know that you all regret the absence of Mr. Bishop on this occasion, and when asked to represent and speak for him I should much rather have declined, but felt it a duty to accept.

That Mr. Bishop is with you today in spirit you all know, and though absent in person, his interest in these schools never wanes, by correspondence with the trustees, principal, and others he has kept well posted in all the progress here made.

On this the natal day of Bernice Pauahi Bishop, the founder's day of this institution, such a grand monument to her love and care for her people, it is beyond my powers to do justice to the occasion or theme.

Both Mrs. Bishop and her husband fully realized, that the proper care and teaching of the young was the only way to insure the stability of the people, and so they have devoted their best thoughts, and much of their property to carry out these ideas.

To you trustees, principal and teachers, the responsibility of carrying out the wishes of the founder's of this institution belongs, and from the experience of the few years since the opening, no fears are entertained of the ultimate success.

To you boys and girls of Kamehameha Schools I would say, that, to show your appreciation of the great gift of your benefactors, you should ever strive to take advantage of all that is here offered you, so that in the future you can show by your industrious and virtuous lives, what the benefactor intended for you.

On behalf of Mr. Bishop I thank you all for showing such an appreciation of the grand work, and memory of the founder of this institution—Bernice Pauahi Bishop.

Dr. Hyde then made a very pleasant reference to Mrs. Bishop's life and read the minutes of a meeting of the trustees of the institution under the will of the late Mrs. Bernice P. Bishop held on June 15, 1888. These in fitting language recounted the beautiful character of Mrs. Bishop and her expenditure of time, energy and money for the benefit of her race.

"All these excellencies and others that cannot be specifically enumerated combined to lead up to the crowning act of a noble, honored and well-spent life. Knowing the fatal nature of the malady that had seized on her, in the disposition of her estate in kindly remembrances of friends and dependents, in bequests outside of her church connections, and especially in founding the Kamehameha Schools, she showed how fully in sympathy she was with the spirit of the Divine Redeemer, who willingly departed with the infinite glory of Divine majesty to minister to the necessities and weaknesses of a sin-ridden world. Founded in such a spirit, with such high aims, may the Kamehameha Schools fulfill the noble purpose, as well as perpetuate the memory of Bernice Pauahi Bishop."

Mrs. Haalelealea was the next speaker introduced and spoke as follows:

FRIENDS AND VISITORS:—Parents and children of Hawaiian kinship, I greet you all with loving salutations. By vote of the Trustees of the Estate of Mrs. Bernice Pauahi Bishop I have been invited to give you a few personal reminiscences of the honored lady, whose birthday we have met here to celebrate. I cannot refrain from expressing first my warm affection and admiration for the lady of royal lineage, to whose love for her people this work of permanent beauty and usefulness must be traced in its origin and design. What she desired most of all was such an education for the young people of Hawaii as would make them good and helpful men and women. Often did she speak of what would be for the advantage and honor of the Hawaiian people. Especially did she wish that the boys and girls might receive such instruction in the industries of modern days as would fit them for the competition of active life. And most earnestly did she desire that the purity of the home might be respected and cherished by young and old of both sexes. She was thankful for what measure of instruction had been imparted, but knowledge, said she, holds the key to untold treasures.

What she desired for others she exemplified in her own life and character. Exquisite in her personal tastes, artistic in all the work she undertook, diligent in looking after the ways of her household, no word ever fell from her lips of doubtful propriety or grammatical inaccuracy. All departments of Christian usefulness received her hearty support, and many cases of individual distress were relieved by her wise generosity. She was a model of princely nobility and yet an object of warm affection to every Hawaiian of all ranks in life.

For you, Hawaiian girls, she has planned advantages and privileges that your grandparents never dreamed of seeing. Great is your indebtedness to your most estimable benefactress for the opportunities so freely and fully offered to you in connection with this Kamehameha School. Be it yours faithfully to improve your time, and make the wisest possible use of these rich provisions for your preparation for the work of life—better than house or lands, for no one can rob you of the stores of experience and principles of conduct you may secure here. Be attentive and obedient to your teachers, diligent in study, faithful in work, and neat and careful in your person and surroundings. Remember the example Mrs. Bishop has set before you, and make yours the high ideals which she cherished. A virtuous woman is deservedly to be praised, and God's blessing is assured to all such as from Christian homes here are ready for the call to come up higher to the heavenly home of the Eternal Father.

My last word is for you, oh Hawaiian parents. With you is the duty of beginning in early life the walk onward and upward, or such a turn downward as to end only in the misery of your children. Your hands hold the thread of their lives. You yourselves are the examples your children are most ready to imitate. If your example is against the influences for good which the school furnishes, you will be responsible for the shame and the injury that will come upon your children. But let these three separate strands work together—parents, children, teachers—in unity of aim and desire. They will form the rope that will safely hold our Hawaiian Ship of State amid perils of every kind, and the blessing of the Heavenly Father will bring this Hawaiian people peace and prosperity never enjoyed before.

After a selection by the Kamehameha School band, Dr. Hyde read the portion of Mrs. Bishop's will bequeathing her property for the maintenance of the Kamehameha School. Then the keys of the girls' school were delivered to Miss Pope's keeping.

Miss Pope's acceptance was nicely worded, and made a marked impression. She referred to the girls' school as another memorial stone sacred to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Bishop.

Beautiful for situation as her dome and balconies, framing pictures of exquisite beauty, giving glimpses of nature in all her lovely moods, and then, too, her foundation is built upon rocks, and there are sermons in the brown stone rocks of Kalihi; they tell us of the rocks ahead—danger signals that will come in our work in the education of Hawaiian girls.

In accepting this trust, on this memorial day, we would enlist your sympathy and ask your co-operation in making K. G. S. an honor and power in this land, trusting that the training received in this school will fit Hawaiian girls for a self-respecting independence, and that they may go forth among their own people being able to stand firm for truth and purity, though snares and pit-falls abound.

The exercises closed with a song by the scholars, accompanied by the band stationed in the hallway. The audience then broke up to inspect the new annex to the museum and the Girls' School building. The annex is an elaborate counterpart of the main building in the excellence of arrangement and material put at its disposal.

The programme of sports was carried on in front of the dormitories. This attracted a good share of the young people and not a few of the elders stopped to witness
